Suggested Activities:

- Transcribe the children's oral responses into written ones and model structures for answering question
- Always ask the children to explain their responses to questions – How do you know?
- Model creating story maps of events and speech bubbles to demonstrate characters actions, thoughts and feelings
- Relate the text type back to the writing the children have completed
- Model how to construct a summary of a text
- Jump in – Encourage children to continue the story to the end of the punctuation in a known story
- Choral response – Encourage children to read as a group or popcorn ideas to questions asking for deeper responses after the initial response
- MYYT – Allow children to discuss in partners or read together
- Ask children to become Reading Detectives and search for clues within texts
- Model reading strategies – re-reading for clarity and understanding
